

Agata Pomykała: International Scientific and Technical Conference "Technical, Operational and Economic Aspects of Hyperloop Technology Development"

The note synthetically describes the issues presented during the international scientific and technical conference entitled Technical, Operational and Economic Aspects of Hyperloop Technology Development, which was organized in Krakow on 12 September 2019 in cooperation with the Railway Research Institute, the Faculty of Civil Engineering of the Cracow University of Technology and the International Union of Railways (UIC). The current state of research on new technology and prospects for its practical application were discussed.

Keywords: modern transport, infrastructure, vacuum train, hyperrail, Hyperloop